MSU Actors Reap Honors At Banquet

Co-operation and dedicated efforts from the students and faculty in the departments of drama and music are resulting in a "fellowship" in the Fine Arts, Firman Brown said last night at the seventh Annual Masquer Awards banquet in the Lodge. Mr. Brown, chairman of the drama department was the principal speaker of the evening.

Masquer President Ione Unruh introduced Edward Brodnick, a graduate drama student, as the new president of the organization. Other officers are Bill Dobson, vice president; Kathy Davies, secretary; Glenn Gauer, treasurer, and Patsy Maxson, historian.

Mrs. Unruh, Delbert Unruh, Claudette Johnson and Margo Maxson were tapped as members of Royal Masquers, an honorary group within Masquers. To be eligible, a person must have completed from 1,500 to 2,000 hours of work in MSU theater and then be voted into the group by past members.

Receiving a "Bobo," MSU's equivalent to Hollywood's Oscar, as the best actress of the year was Georgia Benton Tree for her portrayal of the Mother in "Blood Wedding."

Unruh received the best actor award for his part as Andrew in "Shadow of a Great Rock." He also received the Daniel Bachmann award for outstanding achievement in all phases of theater and the Production Award for outstanding contribution to all areas of MSU drama.

Bill Dobson and Joan Campbell received "Bobos" for best supporting actor and actress, and Ben Holden and Patsy Maxson received awards for the best actor and actress in the workshop play series.

Claudette Johnson, who will be the first woman to receive a Master's degree in Drama in June was selected as the best student director of the year for her work with "Beauty and the Beast."

Dean Regenos, a 1961 MSU graduate, was awarded Playwriting Award for "Shadow of a Great Rock."

John Lester, professor of music, was given the Masquers' Special Award for twenty-five years of outstanding leadership in music and drama.

In preparation for last night's ceremony, eleven new Masquers were initiated Monday night.

New members are: Duncan Crump, Doug Dunnell, Corliss Nickerson and Sue Noreen, Missoula; Kathleen Davies, William Dobson, Glenn Gauer, and Michael Smith, Great Falls; Fay Gonsior, Milltown; Barbara Lape, Big Timber, and Don Thomson, Harlowton.

The Puccini opera, "The Girl of the Golden West," was described as an example of the interdepartmental cooperation that created new faces and ideas for theater in Montana. It was taken on tour over Spring break by the School of Fine Arts.

Schools Can't OK Summer Work For Foreigners

Schools no longer can authorize foreign students to accept summer employment, according to Vedder M. Gilbert MSU foreign student adviser.

All alien students must re-apply to the U.S. Department of Justice in Helena for summer employment regardless of prior arrangements.

A form must be submitted to the Immigration and Naturalization Service in Helena with a written statement from prospective employers saying that the employment will not displace a United States resident.

WHAT CLASS IS THIS?—Students and teachers are taking full advantage of the spring weather by holding classes outside. ## Store Board Delegates Say Elections, Not Appointments

Student representatives on Store Board voiced opinions at their meeting Monday afternoon that they should be elected, not appointed to their positions.

Calvin L. Murphy, University Comptroller and secretary of Store Board, said the students gave their opinions in response to a Kaimin editorial (May 5) which suggested the members be appointed by Central Board.

The representatives believe they should be independent of ASMSU, he said.

The Board passed a motion that student members must have reached legal age by the time they take office in the fall, but do not have to be of legal age at the time they are elected.

The action clarified the position of Phil Miller, newly-elected member, who was not 21 at the time of the election.

The Board approved the salary of Morris H. McCollum, manager. Mr. Murphy did not disclose the amount, saying that although it is public information it is often misconstrued.

Edwin W. Briggs, professor of law, reported that Budget and Finance Committee will appoint faculty members to fill vacancies on Store Board left by the expiration.

Applications Due For Grad School

June graduates planning to enroll in the Graduate School summer quarter must submit their applications now, Frank Abbott, Graduate School dean, stated yesterday.

The dean said that students are urged to send in applications about three months before they plan to enroll, but that they still may start summer quarter if they wish.

Enrollment in the Graduate School is generally up 10 per cent, Mr. Abbott noted. There is "a substantial increase in applications" lately.

Registration for candidates for M.A. degrees and doctorates is conducted as part of the regular MSU registration process, he said.

Applications should be submitted in duplicate with two copies of each college transcript and three letters of reference from persons who know the student's work. The dean added that the letters of reference are not required of MSU graduates, since they are known on campus.

He said that candidates for M.A. degrees can complete the requirements in as little as four quarters, but that it generally takes two years, depending on the area of work.

of the terms of Meyer Chessin, professor of botany, and F. L. Brissey, acting chairman of the speech department.

Mr. Murphy was authorized to employ a certified public accountant to audit the student store's books for the past fiscal year.

A summer executive committee consisting of Fred A. Henningsen, assistant professor of business administration, Penny Huntsberger and Suzanne Francisco was appointed.

The April financial report of the store was heard although there was no disclosure as to what was presented.

Panel to Appraise Aspects of MSU

A panel of four students will appraise various aspects of MSU at an open meeting of Montana Forum Friday noon in Territorial Room 2.

Members of the panel are Suzanne Francisco, Conrad junior and president of Mortar Board; David (Spike) Fuller, Helena senior and president of Silent Sentinel; Printer Bowler, graduate assistant in journalism and former Kaimin editor, and William Wallace, graduate student in English.

Pre-Teaching Petitions Due

Applications for summer student teaching in Missoula are due in the Education Office now.

These summer positions are definitely limited," according to Harlan C. Riese, assistant professor of education.

Mr. Riese wishes to call attention to these positions because it was reported earlier that no student teaching jobs would be available in Missoula this summer.

Applications for all student teaching jobs for next year are also due. To apply, education students must have completed two-thirds of their major work and must have at least a 2.3 grade point average. Students must be seniors at the time they will begin practice teaching.

About 100 applications for these positions have yet to come in, according to Mr. Riese.

Next school year the education department will adopt the "professional quarter." Under this plan, students preparing for student teaching will be allowed to take only education courses for five weeks previous to their teaching assignments.

Loan Request Defeated Again

A motion to lend the Montana Masquers of the School of Fine Arts $1,500 was again defeated by Central Board in a meeting last night in Craig Hall.

The loan would have been used to help purchase and install an air conditioner in the Masquer Theater. The same motion was unanimously defeated by the Board at its May 7 meeting. The Masquers, represented by Firman H. Brown Jr., chairman and associate professor of drama, asked that the Board review the request.

Mr. Brown, appearing before Budget and Finance Committee said that the $1,500 would be a loan and not a grant and that it would be paid back out of Masquer production profits by 1967.

Requesting the loan that would come out of student funds, Mr. Brown said that the Masquer productions are student projects. Budget and Finance Committee referred the request for the loan unfavorably to Central Board. Only one member voted in favor of the motion.

In other business:

Homecoming Committee announced that the Homecoming parade next fall will have a historical theme. Applications for membership on the Committee were approved by the Board.

Planning Board, represented by its new chairman, Kent Price, proposed a by-law change to clarify qualification requirements for serving on Store Board. The by-law proposal, tabled until the next meeting, states that "candidates shall have attained their legal majority before they take office." The term "legal majority" was defined as referring to age 21 for men and age 18 for women.

This proposed by-law, if passed, will replace the present by-law which could be construed to stipulate that students must have reached their legal majority at the time of their election.

The ambiguity of this by-law caused Elections Committee to declare Phil Miller and Gary Gullard ineligible to serve on the Board. Both won positions on the Board in the general ASMSU election but were not 21. Because both will be 21 by the time they take office next fall, Bob Liffing, ASMSU president, has declared them eligible. The Board must still approve this action.

Publications Board reported that Venture, the campus literary magazine, will appear next Tuesday. No one has applied for M Book editor or Venture art editor. Applications for these positions will not be available again until next fall.

Phil Miller was appointed to the position of activities co-ordinator to head the newly organized Activities Board. Miller will supervise several ASMSU committees.

Leadership Camp and Centennial Committees presented financial reports to the Board.

It was confirmed that Roger Williams, pianist, will appear on campus next fall for Homecoming. A final contract, guaranteeing Mr. Williams $5,000 and 60 per cent of anything netted over that amount, will be signed within the next few days.

Central Board will meet next week in the lobby of Knowles Hall.

No more than 10 per cent of any class may be initiated."

Phi Kappa Phi publishes the Grizzly Guide on campus.

Students initiated are Colleen Adams, Elton J. Adams, Peter H. Albers, Robert Anderson, Tom Anderson, Sharon Alzheimer, Marilyn Brown, Christine Cheetham, Brian Cockhill, Sandra Crosby, June Dullenty.

The local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi was established in 1954 and there are more than 85 chapters in the United States, according to Mr. Jeppesen.

New Venture Hits Stands Next Tuesday

Venture's spring issue, the first since the controversial issue last spring, will be distributed on campus Tuesday, Rosemary Carr, editor, reported to Publications Committee yesterday.

The 2,500 copies will cost approximately $1,361, according to an estimate by Claud Lord, superintendent of the printing department.

Distribution points probably will be in the Lodge and the LA Building, Miss Carr said.

Douglas Grimm, M Book editor, reported that 1,500 copies of the updated campus guide probably will cost about $1,050, a savings of more than $300 over the cost of last year's issue.

A Cool Solution: Store Board

Now that Central Board has once again defeated the Masquers' request for a $1,500 loan to buy an air conditioner for the Masquer Theatre, the problem of how to finance the project still exists.

The Masquers definitely need an air conditioner for their plays during the summer months. But as an improvement to the Fine Arts Building, the air conditioner should be paid for by the University. Such a unit is, according to the administration, very low on the priority list of items to be purchased with University funds.

Whether the Masquers should use money from their own profits to finance an improvement to a University building is questionable. But, if the administration's "priority list" is to be believed, it may be the only way an air conditioner will ever be installed.

The Masquers now have $1,100 of the $2,600 which would be necessary to pay for a conditioner. They can earn the remainder in the next three years from profits of the summer theater. But there is no reason they should swelter for three more years if a loan can be obtained now.

A fund does exist from which the Masquers might be able to obtain the money. The profits from the Associated Students Store are placed in a reserve fund to be used "for special programs, services, projects or capital improvements of particular educational, cultural, or institutional value to the University community."

A loan to the Masquers is such a project. Because the money would be loaned, the Store Board's reserve fund would be reimbursed in three years from profits of the summer theater.

The Store Board reserve fund does not come from student activity fees; therefore student funds, as such, would not be paying for University equipment.

A problem still remains in that the Masquers would be paying for University equipment. But the benefits of the air conditioner far outweigh this drawback.

If the trustees of the Store Board reserve fund agreed to this plan, student government would avoid the undesirable position of acting as a lending agency, the Masquers would get their air conditioner and the Store Board reserve fund would be reimbursed in three years. —djf

Political Science Instructor Says Kaimin Distorted His Views About United Nations

To the Kaimin:

The points of view attributed to me in your story in Tuesday's Kaimin about the discussion of stronger U. N. are so badly distorted or so removed from context as to require correction.

In the story I am represented as having said that the United States favored a veto in the Security Council so as "to protect the U.N. from involvement in unsound policy." I really said that one of the reasons for the veto was to protect the U.N. against getting committed to policies that could not be supported by one of the major powers, particularly policies that involved the use of U.N. military sanctions against an aggressor. The idea here was that an attempt to apply military sanctions against a great power would result in the very kind of war the U.N. was designed to prevent. Some confirmation of this theory may be found in the case of the Korean action.

I am further represented as having said that "... the U.N. was built on the principle of deterrence." I really said that the idea of collective security was built on the principle of deterring aggression by the threat of automatic and broadly supported military sanctions. I am not suggesting that the U.N. is not involved in many activities other than collective security.

Finally I am represented as having suggested that "trust among nations involved a spiritual regeneration of the people" which comes pretty close to being tautological. The phrase "spiritual regeneration" was introduced into the discourse by Professor Schuster when she said she wanted a stronger U.N. and disarmament without waiting for "spiritual regeneration." The point I tried to make was that without some basic changes in the structure and process of international relations at large, her suggestions for changes in the U.N. could not be brought about, and even if they could, would not be desirable. But I did not mean to suggest that a global spiritual regeneration was necessary before we could find a way out of the present intolerable 'balance of terror.'

Attend Montana Forum to Hear Profs' Out-of-Class Viewpoints, Student Urges

To the Kaimin:

Is it possible that only a limited number of students know or care about the Montana Forum?

If you're tired of taking notes during a lecture or you would like to hear your instructor speak about a subject not found in your textbook, then the place to go is the Forum.

In past weeks, outstanding faculty members such as Mr. Payne, Mr. Kittell, Mr. Johnson, and Mr. Honkala have spoken before the Forum. This is where you hear not only one faculty member speak on a given day, but where you may hear members of various departments and schools express their views during the course of a given hour. Those of us who were present last Friday may recall that views were expressed by Mrs. Schuster, philosophy; Mr. Kuhn, political science, and Mr. Pfeiffer, zoology. They freely exchanged views on the U.N., "the bomb" and the boost given the economy by the money saved through disarmament.

You say who needs the Forum? I can hear these people any time I have a notion to go to class, you say. On the contrary, if you have the idea that these speakers will always be around, you can think again.

Dr. Johnson, a most impressive speaker, Fulbright lecturer (in Greece), author and a man who for years has had first hand knowledge of the machinery in Washington, has said that he will be going into retirement after this year. I doubt that many of us will again have the opportunity to hear him speak, as his home is in Pullman, Wash.

How many more of our present instructors will be changing schools, retiring, or in some way become inaccessible in the future? The time to take an interest is now.

The Forum is easy to find. It's located in the Territorial Room on the second floor of the Lodge at Friday noon and is free. Independents and people who eat in the grill only need to carry their trays into the Territorial Room for an interesting and informative luncheon.

Last week, Mrs. Schuster spoke before the largest audience of spring quarter. Let's turn out in even larger numbers for this week's topic, the last one of the school year, Students Appraise Education at MSU. Printer Bowler, Suzanne Francisco and Spike Fuller will speak.

See you there.

Poor, Rich Make Way to Honor Nehru

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW DELHI

● Ragged villagers and untouchables and the rich and powerful poured into New Delhi by tens of thousands today for the funeral of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, the patrician who abandoned luxury to build a new life for India's faceless masses. Nehru, 74, died of a heart attack yesterday and left his grief-stricken nation in a leadership vacuum. Followed by statesmen from over the world, Nehru's body made its final journey today through the streets of the capital from which he welded India's down-trodden millions into one nation. The body had lain in state on the porch through the night as hundreds of thousands of sorrowing Indians passed in mournful homage. So great was the desire to see India's 74-year-old leader a last time that the crowd outside stampeded shortly before the procession started, killing two persons and injuring six. To the beat of muffled drums, an honor guard of Indian soldiers and sailors accompanied Nehru's bier along the six-mile route to the Hindu funeral pyre.

WASHINGTON
● An historic U.S.-Soviet consular treaty providing for quick access to any Americans jailed in the Soviet Union will be signed in Moscow on June 1. In announcing this yesterday, President Johnson hailed the pact as a significant step in improving U.S.-Soviet relations. He will submit it to the U.S. Senate for ratification. The new agreement, to be signed by U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, is unprecedented in two ways:
1. It is the first bilateral, or two-country, treaty ever concluded between the United States and the Soviet Union.
2. It stipulates that any visitor jailed in the Soviet Union will have access to his consul within four days—setting a specific time limit. ● A State Department spokesman said yesterday that the United States has furnished "several additional" T28 aircrafts to the neutralist government of Laos at the request of Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma. Press officer Richard I. Phillips said the action was in line with the U.S. policy of furnishing the Laotian government with limited amounts of military equipment, under terms of the 1962 Geneva agreements. ● A proposed constitutional amendment, designed to keep the office of vice president filled and authorizing him to serve as acting president when necessary, took a first step through Congress yesterday.

The amendment would permit a president to select a vice president, subject to approval by Congress, when a vacancy occurs in the vice presidency. It also provides that if a president becomes disabled, his authority will be exercised temporarily by the vice president acting as president. The president would resume his duties and powers on recovery.

Just one more week of classes, then tests, then . . . GETAWAY DAY! With your last-minute papers and cramming, we know that you've got little time to think about school next fall. So we're not going to ask you to drop everything, run down to Peoples State Bank (although it's just blocks from campus) and arrange for next fall's banking needs.

Instead, just clip the coupon below and send it to us this summer. We'll be glad to establish a bank account for you in Missoula's new campus bank.

Just clip the coupon—then, get back to your studies!
